GERMANY'S PLOT TO STEAL THE PEACE

by Johannes Steel

Radio news commentator, columnist for the New York Post, author of Men Behind the War, and war correspondent.

Late last October, a man arrived in London who a few days previously had escaped from Germany. He told agents of the British Secret Service that the Germans are already thinking in terms of a third world war and are confident of a victory in it, having written off the winning of the present war.

The German General Staff now believes that its big mistake in this war was leaving England last on its agenda of victims. Members of the staff are agreed not to repeat that error in the third world war which they are now preparing.

The German technique of "organizing defeat" for the purpose of trying again later when the chances for ultimate victory are better, is being demonstrated now with unmatched effrontery.

The Author—Johannes Steel

Background for Johannes Steel's provocative article exposing Pan-Germanic post-war plans was gained throughout a decade of distinguished news analysis, reporting latest developments for his broadcast over WMCA, his newspaper column appearing daily in the New York Post and his incisive interpretations of wartime developments in his books Men Behind the War, The Second World War, Hitler as Frankenstein and other writing. His broadcasts frequently have revealed uncanny perception, as when he anticipated the events which culminated in Munich in 1937 and 1938 and when he predicted a Japanese attack in the Pacific within 60 days, in October, 1941. He is a governor of the famed Overseas Press Club of America and a member of the World Circumnavigators Club and American Academy of Political and Social Sciences.
